

amiando's online pre-sale tool available worldwide

Munich, 4th December 2007. After the internationalisation of their event platform in September this year, amiando is now offering its services worldwide. Thanks to a cooperation with PayPal, the payment process for ticket pre-sales is available throughout the world.

amiando AG, the leading provider of online event management in Europe, is taking an important step in the development of its ticketing and pre-sale tools through this collaboration with PayPal. The Munich-based company already made its services available to the English and French markets in September.

With the introduction of this new service, users of amiando.com are now able to choose between the existing full-service offer and the new PayPal option. While amiando AG is only responsible for the ticketing under the PayPal option, the company handles the complete payment management and ticket dispatch processes in the full-service version.

amiando AG

amiando AG assists event hosts with the organization of small and medium-sized events. With amiando.com, the first online service of its kind in Europe, amiando AG makes invitation management and community building possible for all kinds of events.

You can find more information about amiando AG and its founders, as well as printable graphical material at www.amiando.com/press

Contact

Felix Haas

Phone: +49.(0)89. 452160-362

Fax: +49.(0)89. 452160-361

Mail: presse@amiando.com

www.amiando.com/press